PROGRAM

Program Chair, Jeff Deer introduced the speaker of the day, Commander Curtis Leyshon, Commanding Officer of the Naval Special Warfare Unit at Pearl Harbor. Curtis was originally from Youngstown, Ohio and has been in Hawaii for 17 years. He majored in submarine warfare at Naval Academy where he graduated in 1991. His wife Cathy grew up in Hawaii, and they have 2 daughters. He coaches soccer for his daughters as a hobby and likes to surf.

CDR Leyshon's presentation centered on the uniqueness of the SEAL Submarine community in Hawaii. There are more submarine squadrons in Hawaii than any other Submarine Base in the world. This is due to our strategic location in the Pacific, an area of major importance in recent times. Over the past 7 years, we have centralized under sea capacity, which means that today every SEAL team has a specialty.

Naval Special Warfare is comprised of SEAL teams, SEAL Delivery Vehicle Teams, and Special Boat Teams that deploy worldwide for a variety of operations. There are eight SEAL teams. Each team has six platoons and a headquarters element. SEAL platoons consist of 16 SEALs -- two officers, one chief, and 13 enlisted men. A platoon is generally the largest operational element assigned to a mission. The platoon may also be divided into two squads or four elements. Every member of a SEAL platoon is qualified in diving, parachuting, and demolition. The teams are split between the East Coast and West Coast of the United States. The odd- numbered teams fall under the command of Naval Special Warfare Group One and are based on the West Coast in Coronada, CA. The even numbered teams are under the command of Naval Special Warfare Group Two and are based on the East Coast in Little Creek, VA.

There are other specialized teams of SEALs called S E A L Delivery Vehicle Teams (SDVT).

is too far out for a SEAL to swim and carry gear. Using underwater SDV watercraft, these teams increase the areas in which SEALs can operate. SDV teams usually deploy from submarines, but can also deploy from shore-based stations or surface ships.

There are two SDV teams. SEAL Delivery Vehicle Team ONE (SDVT-1) is based in Pearl Harbor, HA, and operates in the Pacific and Central geographic areas. SEAL Delivery Vehicle Team TWO (SDVT-2) is based at Little Creek, VA, and conducts operations throughout the Atlantic, Southern, and European areas.

There are also Naval Special Warfare Units based in locations around the world. These units have several responsibilities, including acting as training commands for SEALs and planning, coordinating and supporting the activities of SEAL platoons.

CDR Leyshon explained what they call a "sample situation" for a SEAL Team. The SEAL Team embarks on a submarine and the submarine covertly positions itself near the country or location of interest. The submarines' on board sensors combined with outside intelligence sources can collect information in support of placing an infiltration team ashore. Using unique undersea vehicles that have "piggy backed" on the submarine, the SEAL Team would deploy and infiltrate an area, plant some additional intelligence collection devices, and transmit information back to the submarine which would allow the submarine to launch a Tomahawk missile strike.

What is unique about this collaboration of the Submarine and SEAL Team is that the entire operation is conducted clandestinely This allows for both teams to go places that would be nearly impossible for conventional forces.

CDR Leyshon thanked the club for their participation and welcomed any question that the audience had prior to ending the presentation.

President Doug Taylor thanked CDR Leyshon and asked him to autograph children's book The King ofOuizzical Island. bv Gordon Snell and David McKee, which w i 1 1 b e donated to A i e Elementary School in his honor

July, 2012

Dear fellow Rotarians.

I am part of the first generation to grow up in Japan after a terrible war. I think it is natural that my countrymen now place a great priority on peace. We saw where militarism brought our country, and we also saw the great economic growth that came when our nation made the choice to embrace peace.

This was the decision that allowed Japan to grow and thrive. It allowed generations of children to grow up in safety, to become educated, to improve their lives. It fundamentally changed the Japanese attitude toward other countries and cultures. It caused us to open our minds, to become more tolerant, to seek greater understanding.

And it allowed us to redirect our energies toward positive goals. In Japan, it is traditional to prioritize the needs of the society over the needs of the individual. This has always been part of our culture. In the weeks and months following the great earthquake and disaster of March 2011, this was what helped us to survive and rebuild.

This is a lesson that I think the whole world can learn from, in a positive way. When we see the needs of others as more important than our own needs — when we focus on a shared goal that is for the good of all — this changes everything. It changes how we relate to the world. It changes our priorities. And it changes how we understand the idea of peace.

In the 2012-13 Rotary year, peace will be our focus and our goal, and I will ask all Rotarians to actively work for Peace Through Service.

A belief in the power of service lies at the very heart of Rotary. By making service our priority, we put the needs of others above our own. We empathize more deeply with the difficulties of other people; we become more generous with our time and resources, and more open to new ways of thinking. Instead of trying to change others, we recognize that everyone and everything has something to teach us.

Through service, we become more tolerant of our differences and more grateful for the people in our lives. Our sense of gratitude drives us to understand others better and to see the good in everyone. Through better understanding, we learn to respect others. With mutual respect, we live with others in peace.

And so I ask you all to put Peace Through Service at the forefront of your Rotary work this year, and to commit to a Rotary goal of a more peaceful world.

Sakuji Tanaka President, Rotary International
